WELCOME!

The Office of Faculty Advancement and Student Success (FASS) congratulates you and welcomes you to San Diego State University (SDSU).

We are happy that you have chosen to join us and we are excited to meet you!

At SDSU, you are considered a First-Generation college student if you are the first person in your family to attend college. We recognize that there are many definitions of first-generation college students such as being the first in your family to graduate from a 4-year institution in the U.S. We welcome all first-generation college students. The SDSU first-generation college student community is diverse on campus with 20% of students identifying as first-generation/first-gen.

We understand that being the first in your family to attend college or graduate school may come with some unique challenges. To help students aid in their transition, we are committed to providing SDSU first-generation students a connection to:

- Community: Meet peers that share the same goals, have similar experiences, and are also breaking academic and social boundaries.
- Campus Resources via:
 - Faculty mentorship and support programs
 - Faculty/Staff guest speakers
 - Research & Service Learning opportunities
 - Other campus engagement opportunities

The information in this guidebook serves to:

- Connect you to resources on campus earlier in order to maximize your success on campus.
- Connect you to community.
- Link students to mentors early and by utilizing resources to support your overall academic, personal and professional growth.

FIRST-GENERATION COLLEGE STUDENTS

Tips From First-Gens to First-Gens at SDSU

1. Connect and engage with faculty to help guide you.
2. Find a community and support system. People who can help guide you and support you.
3. Never set limits to your success and take advantage of all the resources available to you to reach and surpass all your goals, you'll never know what you're capable of until you try.
4. You are in constant transition- make sure to lean into the discomfort and seek out mentors/femtors, friends, and family that support you, challenge you, and make you a better person.
5. Use opportunities to broaden yourself, career and social life. Join clubs, don't be shy, put yourself out there.
6. Surround yourself with people who can remind you of who you are and why you're here. Reach out and build a cohort of advocates.
7. We're reminded of what we don't have but we do have soft skills that make us stronger.
8. It's going to be ok. That's a powerful sentence. I wish someone would have told me this.
9. Initially I had a lot of doubt, felt like I had to figure it out on my own. There's other roads. If your path is different than others, it's ok.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT

Advising - General

The Office of Advising and Evaluations supports students success through academic advising and records evaluation. We are the primary campus resource for information on:

- (1) General education (GE) requirements
- (2) Degree evaluations
- (3) Graduate requirements
- (4) University academic policies

Contact Information

Phone: 619-594-6668

Educational Opportunity Programs (EOP) and Ethnic Affairs

The Office of Educational Opportunity Programs (EOP) and Ethnic Affairs is a student success program aimed at helping students achieve excellence by providing access, assistance with the transition to college, and academic and individual support as they progress towards their degree. Student who are California residents and those who meet AB-540 criteria and have been admitted to EOP have the opportunity to enhance their undergraduate success by participating in innovative programs and services at no cost to the student or their parent/guardian. Students cannot apply for services once they begin their first semester at a CSU campus.

The mission of the Office of Educational Opportunity Programs and Ethnic Affairs is to serve students from low income backgrounds and historically underserved communities by providing innovative and transitional services that facilitate the successful recruitment, retention and development of scholars and leaders as they persist toward a university degree.

EOP also oversees the Guardian Scholars Program. SDSU Guardian Scholars (GS) Program is a holistic support program committed to serving students who identify as current or former foster youth, wards of the court, under legal guardianship or unaccompanied homeless youth by supporting their transition to, through and beyond SDSU.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT

Supplemental Instruction (SI)

Supplemental Instruction (SI) follows a highly prescriptive model of peer-assisted learning that targets historically difficult courses and offers free sessions to all students on a voluntary basis. Sessions are facilitated by students who were previously successful in the course. The sessions are collaborative and integrate course content and study skills with information gathering from attending all the class lectures to help students engage in active learning.

Writing Center

The Writing Center promotes student success with writing across the university in order to develop and extend all students' knowledge and performance of academic literacies. The center offers services in tutoring, online tutoring, workshops, classroom visits, and reference materials. They offer workshops which provide an overview of the Writing Placement Assessment and focus on writing personal statements.

COVID-19 RESOURCES

Coronavirus (COVID-19) - Resources for Students

The coronavirus (COVID-19) information for students website serves as a first stop for students to learn about the university's response to coronavirus as well as to get connected to campus resources. Student Health Services has provided information regarding how to protect yourself against the virus.

Online: <https://sacd.sdsu.edu/student-health-services/coronavirus-covid19-Information-for-students>

Economic and Crisis Response Team

The Economic Crisis Response Team (ECRT) offers assistance for students who have limited access to the SDSU virtual environment because of economic conditions or have a food or housing crisis. For assistance with technology issues, please click on the red "request assistance" button and select "other" on the form.

Online: <https://sacd.sdsu.edu/ecrt>

Student Success Virtual Desk

This website serves as a first stop for academic information for the fall 2020 semester. The site contains frequently asked questions with resources to help students and families find information regarding planning ahead for future semesters and all students' well-being. A virtual desk staffed by current students is available to assist students with locating an academic advisor or knowing where to obtain answers to their academic questions.

Online: <https://studentsuccess.sdsu.edu/>

Virtual Support and Resources for Students

This website includes information regarding how to contact academic advisors who can assist students with their class schedules, free tutoring services for students, access to library resources, how students can get involved in organizations outside of the classroom, and more.

FASS STUDENT COMMUNITIES

Undeclared College Council

The Undeclared College Council (UCC) acts as a liaison between the Division of Undergraduate Studies, the 6 College Councils, and SDSU student government Associated Students. The UCC represents over 1000 undeclared students on campus and supports students during their decision-making processes by:

- Fostering a strong sense of community on campus by connecting students directly to faculty, staff, and other students.
- Promoting academic success by connecting students to peers and advisers in the College of Arts and Letters, Business, Education, Engineering, Health and Human Services, Professional School of Fine Arts, and the Sciences.
- Linking students to Career Services counseling and resources to assess personal interests, abilities, and values.
- Encouraging students to take a proactive role in their overall learning experience by participating in campus organizations, leadership training, service, and academic support programs.

HIGH-IMPACT PRACTICES (HIPS)

San Diego State University students have the opportunity to participate in many practices that are called “high-impact learning or high-impact educational experiences.” Educational research (Kuh, 2008) has shown that college students from many backgrounds benefit from participating in high-impact educational activities. The activities below are identified as high-impact practices (HIPS) because students are actively engaged in the learning process and are able to apply their learning beyond the classroom to their personal and work lives.

All students are encouraged to complete at least two HIPS before graduation:

1. First-year Seminars and Experiences
2. Common Intellectual Experiences
3. Learning Communities
4. Writing-Intensive Courses
5. Collaborative Assignments and Projects
6. Undergraduate Research
7. Diversity/Global Learning
8. Service Learning, Community-Based Learning
9. Internships
10. Capstone Courses and Projects

Benefits of Participants in HIPS Provide Students the Opportunity to:

- Pose and solve problems
- Work collaboratively with faculty, staff, graduate students or peers
- Experience real-world applications
- Reflect on learning experience
- Improve and enhance the quality of your overall learning experience, retention, and success, particularly for underserved students
- Improve time to earn your degree

HIGH-IMPACT PRACTICES (HIPS)

Connect with Faculty

There are over 30,000 undergraduates at SDSU. As a new student, you may have classes that have over 100 students enrolled or small classes with less than 50 students. Regardless, to aid in your success, all students are encouraged to meet your professors. If you have plans to apply to graduate school in the future, you will also need letters of recommendation from your professors or professionals in your field. Below are some examples on how to connect with faculty at SDSU.

1. Go to office hours. You have access to office hours on your syllabus, use them. If you are scared or shy to go to office hours, bring a friend from class with you. Office hours are time faculty set aside for students to visit their office and ask questions about assignments, the course, graduate school, or to learn more about their professor's field of study.
2. Conflict with office hours due to work or family obligations? Email your professor or speak to them after class to make an appointment. If they cannot meet in person, a phone appointment is better than not communicating at all.
3. Become a research assistant. Identify a faculty member you would like to conduct research with. Schedule an appointment. You will need to do some homework before you contact a faculty member (See Preparing for Undergraduate Research section in this guidebook).
4. Student Organizations. All student organizations on campus are required to have a campus adviser. If your organization has a faculty adviser, get to know him/her/them.
5. Go to major advising. Visit your major adviser on a regular basis. They can provide ways for you to connect with faculty in your department. Most major advisers are also faculty members in your department.
6. Talk to graduate students. If you have a teaching assistant who is a master or doctoral student, go to their office hours. Ask them how they connected with faculty when they were undergraduates. Find out when departmental seminars are being hosted. Sometimes departments host guests lectures that may be open to all students (graduate and undergraduate). Faculty can be present at these types of department events.
7. Read professor web biographies. Check out their books or review their published work or creative projects. This is a great way to make a connection regarding their work and your professional interests.
8. Contact professors who are listed as first-gen faculty on the SDSU first-gen website. Professors listed on the SDSU first-gen website are first-gen college graduates and may share similar experiences as yourself since they also identify as first-gen.

Some first-gen professors have also created videos to share their college experience and tips on how to successfully navigate college. These videos are a good way to "meet" professors before you contact them. The videos are available on the SDSU first-gen website.

HIGH-IMPACT PRACTICES

Internships

SDSU recognizes the National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE) internship definition. An internship is a form of experiential learning that integrates knowledge and theory learned in the classroom with practical application and skill development in a professional setting. Internships give students the opportunity to gain valuable applied experience and make connections in professional fields they are considering for career paths; and give employers the opportunity to guide and evaluate talent.

Internships are high-impact practices that allow students to develop professionalism and learn how to apply the knowledge needed to transition successfully into the workplace. Internships are hands-on, experiential opportunities that bridge your academic work with an industry or field in the professional world.

Career Services

Through partnerships, education, and programming, Career Services provides current students and alumni with many opportunities to define, develop, and realize their career potential. They provide 1-on-1 advising, career and graduate school fairs, workshops, interview preparation, and more!

Contact Information

Students can search for on-campus and off-campus jobs via Handshake on the Career Services site. A calendar of events is available online at the website listed above.

HIGH-IMPACT PRACTICES

Service Learning and Community Engagement Programs

The following definitions provide distinctions among the two important aspects of community engagement efforts you can participate in at SDSU. These are not a complete listing as there are other forms of community engagement activities that are available at SDSU including: social entrepreneurship, volunteering, social philanthropy, and community-based action research.

Service Learning

A teaching method that promotes student learning through active participation in meaningful and planned service experiences in the community that are substantively related to course content. Through reflective activities, students enhance their understanding of course content, general knowledge, sense of civic responsibility, self-awareness, and commitment to the community.

Service-Learning Course

An academic course (in any discipline) that provides students opportunities to participate in organized service activities that meet community needs while linking the community service experiences to the course content. This makes service learning a very different experience than community service.

Community Service

Any work provided by individuals that contributes to the quality of life in the community. Community service work can be provided in several ways and for different purposes. Students may be involved in community service on their own, with a group or club, or through academic course-work. When the community service is part of the academic course work, and when the service relates directly to the course content, it is considered service learning.

The mission of the Service Learning and Community Engagement Program (SLCEP) is to support student learning through course-based study that connects to responsive civic action whether in local, regional or international locales.

HIGH-IMPACT PRACTICES (HIPS)

Study Abroad

Study abroad for SDSU students means completing part of the SDSU academic experience in a country outside the United States. Traditional courses at a foreign university, volunteering, internships, research, service learning, and short-term faculty-led programs are all available. SDSU offers more than 600 international programs in over 50 countries, during winter break, spring break, summer, a semester or an entire academic year.

Study Abroad is a high-impact practice that allows students to expand their knowledge of other cultures and global issues, learn about their own social identity, develop respect and acceptance for other perspectives, develop skills for social interaction in a globalized world, and begin to understand social responsibility.

International Student Center

San Diego State University is committed to building a global learning community in which diverse perspectives and intercultural awareness are valued and promoted. The university is also committed to preparing students for an increasingly globally interconnected future.

The International Student Center (ISC) advances the internationalization efforts of SDSU by serving both incoming international students and SDSU students studying abroad. The ISC offers a full range of programs and services to foster student success, global perspectives, intercultural awareness and international cooperation.

HIGH-IMPACT PRACTICES (HIPS)

Preparing for Undergraduate Research

Undergraduates participate in the world-class cross-disciplinary research, both creative and scientific, conducted at the San Diego State University (SDSU). Since 2000, SDSU faculty and staff researchers have been awarded more than $1.5 billion in external funding. This provides an abundance of opportunities for research mentors to gain from your hard work, energy, curiosity, and fresh perspectives. Students engaged in mentored research experiences benefit both academically and through career exploration as they engage in the pursuit of knowledge. Whether your goal is to secure employment or acceptance into graduate school, engaging in undergraduate research projects provide you with critical skills and knowledge to help you stand out in the applicant pool.

To get involved in Undergraduate Research, be well prepared. The following suggestions apply to all students interested in participating in faculty mentored research experiences.

Visit Professor Office Hours

- Go to office hours regularly to ask questions about your class or your instructor's research and/or career path.
- Build relationships with faculty to learn about opportunities.
- If you apply for other research opportunities, scholarships/fellowships and future graduate programs, you will need strong letters of recommendation.

Read Department Websites and Faculty Bios

- Find professors who are doing research that interests you and talk to them now.
- Look at department webpages to learn about professors' research topics.
- Email the professor or go to office hours to ask about their research and what they look for in an undergraduate research assistant.

Get Good Grades

- Some faculty require students to have a minimum GPA.
- Utilize the free Writing Center in Love Library.
- See your Assistant Dean in your college/division to learn about academic enrichment programs and other support.

HIGH-IMPACT PRACTICES (HIPS)

Research at SDSU

Undergraduate Students

The National Council of Undergraduate Research defines Undergraduate Research as: An inquiry or investigation conducted by an undergraduate student in collaboration with a faculty mentor that makes an original intellectual or creative contribution to the discipline.

Research helps undergraduates discover which subjects interest them as scholars, allows them to gain the critical skills necessary to enter graduate school, and helps underscore the real-life applications of classroom teachings.

Graduate Students

San Diego State University excels in innovation, research, and creative activities due in a large part to the success of our graduate students. Because research expectations and requirements vary widely by graduate program, students are generally expected to develop a research plan with their Graduate Advisor or Thesis Chair in their first semesters at SDSU.

Contact Information

Student Research Symposium

The Student Research Symposium (SRS) provides a public forum where all San Diego State University students can present their research, scholarship or creative activities. The symposium is a two-day event, occurring each spring semester, that recognizes the outstanding scholarly accomplishments of SDSU students. It is a great way to learn about all the wonderful projects that our students, both graduate and undergraduate, are engaged in. Presidential Awards ($500) are also awarded to recognize outstanding achievement in original scholarship. Cash awards are given in recognition of outstanding presentations or performances during SRS each year. These graduate and undergraduate students go on to represent SDSU at the CSU Student Research Competition.

HONORS COMMUNITY

Types of Honors at SDSU

Departmental Honors

Departmental honors are available in some departments (Biology, Business, Classics, Comparative Literature, Computer Science, English, History, Psychology, and Sociology). The requirements vary by department. These types of honors programs are not the same as the Weber Honors College. Students should consult the Class Schedule for such honors classes and contact the department or instructor for additional information.

Graduating with Honors (distinction)

The honors distinction is based on a student's overall GPA and major department's recommendation. This distinction is determined at the time a student's bachelor's degree is conferred. Students may qualify for one of the distinctions: Cum laude (3.50-3.64 GPA), magna cum laude (3.65-3.79 GPA), or summa cum laude (3.80-4.00 GPA). Additional information is available on page 487 of the SDSU General Catalog 2020-2021.

Honors Council & Honors Societies

The SDSU Honors Council (HC) comprises student and faculty representatives of the Weber Honors College and of the four campus-wide multidisciplinary honors societies: Mortar Board, Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Beta Delta (official status pending), and Tau Sigma. The HC acts as an advisory and coordinating resource center. Joining a honors society opens up a campus and national network for you including scholarship opportunities. Additional information is available on page 43 of the SDSU General Catalog 2020-2021.

All Honors societies are invitation only except for Mortar Board, which has an application process.

Mortar Board (seniors): <http://mortarboard.sdsu.edu/>

Phi Beta Kappa (juniors/seniors): <http://honorscouncil.sdsu.edu/multidiscipline-societies/phi-beta-kappa>

HONORS COMMUNITY

Weber Honors College

Weber Honors College (WHC) is committed to providing a unique community of place and purpose and a gathering space for a diverse group of students who share a commitment to achievement, to giving back to the communities in which they live and work, and to deep engagement.

Students are required to complete a 16 unit honors minor in interdisciplinary studies, study abroad (location and length of time is decided by the student with assistance from the honors study abroad advisor), and a high impact practice (either research, service, leadership, or creative/performing arts). Interested students must apply to join the Honors College for the fall semester. The priority deadline for students is February 1, 2021 and the final deadline is March 30, 2021 for the fall 2021 cohort. Students are strongly encouraged to apply by the priority deadline.

Eligibility:

Incoming freshmen with either a minimum 3.7 cumulative gpa or minimum score of 1270 on the SAT (Evidence-Based Reading & Writing, and Math) or minimum composite score of 28 on the ACT are eligible to apply to the Weber Honors College after they have applied to SDSU in the fall. Current SDSU students and transfer students (coming from a community college or another university) with a minimum cumulative gpa of 3.2 at the time of application, are also encouraged to apply. Additional information and application are available on the website listed below.

Late Night Ride Program

Parking and Transportation Services has partnered with Lyft for a late night ride pilot program. Students can now request a ride from any campus building within the university's geofence on weeknights between midnight and 4:00am. In support of this pilot program, we will waive $5 from one ride per month. Additional requirements and information is available online at the site listed below.

Red and Black Shuttle

The Red and Black Shuttle program is a method of transportation to support your academic success. The route map and information is available online at the site listed below.

Hours of Operation: Monday through Friday from 5:30pm to midnight when classes are in session for the fall and spring semesters. The shuttle will not operate on campus holidays.

- To use the shuttle program download the DoubleMapp app and select San Diego State University. Live shuttle updates are available via the DoubleMapp app. You will need to enter your @sdsu.edu email and your SDSUId. Once you have done this, you can show the driver your phone that you are an SDSU affiliate.
- The shuttle does not operate on a standard schedule so riders should refer to the app for shuttle bus arrival times.
- There are five shuttle buses that will use three routes: red, black, and green routes. A shuttle bus to accommodate ADA requests is available.
- The green route offers seven on-campus shuttle stops. The red and black routes offer 18 shuttle stop locations surrounding campus.
- All three routes connect in front of the Speech, Language, and Hearing Sciences building so riders can easily transfer to a new route.

PROFESSIONAL EMAIL ETIQUETTE

When emailing faculty or staff on campus, it is important to use a professional format. Even if you are using your phone to email faculty/staff at SDSU, there are a few items that should be included:

- A greeting such as "Hello" or "Dear" before the person's name
- Introduce yourself
- Provide some context regarding your question or reason for your appointment request
- A signature such as "Thank you" or "Best"

We have included some sample emails below.

Contacting Faculty

Sample 1: A "typical email"

Hi Dr. Doran,

I'm a 2nd year student hoping to get involved in research. I am a biology major and plan to attend medical school. I would really like to work with you in biology. Do you have any paid undergraduate research positions this summer?

Student

Contacting Faculty

Sample 2: A "better email"

Dear Dr. Doran,

My name is Erin Fletcher and I'm a second year biology major. I took microbiology 211 and developed a passion for bacteriology and virology. I switched my major to Molecular Biology and am extremely interested in pursuing independent research under your mentorship.

Recently I read your 2010 paper, "Regulation of CovR expression in Group B streptococcus impacts blood-brain barrier." In particular, I am fascinated how certain pathogens cross barriers at the molecular level and the stages leading to infection. If possible, I would love to start working on a long-term project under your mentorship.

Are you available to meet sometime this week to discuss your research? I would also be happy to volunteer in your lab for a few weeks before we commit to anything and to see if this is a good match. Attached are my transcript and resume. I look forward to hearing from you!

Thank you,

Erin Fletcher

RESOURCE CENTERS

Asian Pacific Islander Desi American (APIDA) Resource Center

The SDSU APIDA Center facilitates the academic and personal success of APIDA-identified students by providing relevant and accessible programming, resources, and services that will identify and address barriers to academic achievement, community-building, on- and off- campus partnerships, and advocacy for the inclusion of APIDA people's unique histories, cultures, and perspectives in campus programs and curriculum. This Center strives to increase the visibility and voice of APIDA students and enable the academic success of APIDA students through the promotion of academic engagement and retention efforts.

RESOURCE CENTERS

Center for Intercultural Relations

Created out of student activism in 2003, the Center for Intercultural Relations has historically served as the intersectional space for students with multiply marginalized (Hill Collins 1990) identities at SDSU.

Today, the Center seeks to support the academic, personal, and professional success of historically underrepresented and underserved students at San Diego State University. The Center continues to serve students with multiply marginalized identities through intrusive advising, access to basic needs, and academic success programming.

Center for Transformative Justice

Through student support programs, community outreach, and interdisciplinary conversations across San Diego State and beyond, the Center for Transformative Justice explores justice that transforms—our selves, our relationships, and our communities.

Informed by the pioneering work of Project Rebound, the CSU initiative bridging the worlds of incarceration and higher education, our understanding of transformative justice includes repairing harm in relationships and changing systems that cause harm. Whether justice is framed in terms of freedom or equity, opportunity or protection, collective responsibility or being made whole, it is a process that reveals itself in relation to our own and each other's humanity. Transformative justice work as we imagine it is internal, relational, structural, and ongoing.

SCHOLARSHIPS & FELLOWSHIPS

National Scholarships & Fellowships

National Scholarships & Fellowships administers a number of competitive scholarship and fellowship opportunities available to current undergraduates, graduate students, and alumni. We support students through campus endorsement, one-on-one mentoring sessions, and workshops. Fellowships provide funding for opportunities such as study abroad, language learning, research, international graduate school at certain institutions, and more. National scholarships and fellowships are not the same as the SDSU administered scholarships. A listing of various national scholarships and fellowships are available online at the website below.

QUICK GLANCE TERMS

Academic Year: The academic year at SDSU consists of two semesters, Fall and Spring. Fall semester begins in August and Spring semester begins in January.

Academic Adviser: Advisers are available to help you develop your academic plan, understand graduate requirements, evaluate transfer credit, choose or change a major, clear mathematics and writing requirements, remove probationary status to avoid disqualification, file for graduation, prepare to enter a professional school, and plan your next semester's schedule. SDSU has general academic advisers for general education requirements, major specific advisers, and professional advisers.

Accommodations: Accommodations are services provided to remove any barriers that disability creates so that all students have an equal opportunity to be successful. Accommodations can be done with the Student Ability Success Center or with the Title IX office for those who may need gender-based or sexual discrimination accommodations.

Add/Drop: Add a class to your course schedule through WebPortal during your registration time and you can also drop a class any time after that. Depending on when you drop courses, that may affect your financial status as well as much of a refund you receive.

AidLink: A secure online portal that gives you 24-hour access to your financial aid awards and your scholarship information. This is where you can accept loans, view your financial aid award letter, apply for SDSU scholarships, and more.

Ally: In the field of social justice, an ally to another person or group of people stands up in support of those being marginalized or treated unjustly; an ally is willing to act with and for others in pursuit of ending oppression and creating equality.

A.P. (Academic Probation): An indication that a student's cumulative GPA has fallen below 2.0; students on academic probation must raise their grades to a 2.0 GPA or better or may be placed on suspension or disqualification unless granted an extension by their academic dean.

Certificate Program: In an economy that increasingly rewards specialization, more and more SDSU departments are offering certification programs, typically a package of five or six courses, for credit or not, taken over three to 18 months. See your general Catalog or meet with a major adviser for more information.

College: There are two meanings for college: one refers to an educational institution that awards degrees, such as community colleges, four-year college and universities, and vocational schools; the second refers to one of several academic colleges within the university. SDSU has seven colleges: Arts and Letters, Fowler College of Business, Education, Engineering, Health and Human Services, Professional Studies and Fine Arts, and Sciences.

Commencement/Graduation: The commencement ceremony celebrates students who have completed all the requirements of their major and general education; the ceremony may include a processional, introductions, awards, a speaker, and a recessional

Convocation: An annual ceremony at the beginning of each fall semester where faculty, staff, student leaders, and community members welcome new students to San Diego State University.

QUICK GLANCE TERMS

Counselor: SDSU has psychological counselors and therapists at Counseling & Psychological Services (C&PS). Counselors are available to hear your concerns, identify options, and help you find the best way for you to get the help you need. This can include getting scheduled for short-term individual or group counseling at C&PS, a referral to another on-campus department, and/or referral to a community mental health provider.

Course Number: The number your college or university uses to classify a course. You usually need this number in order to register for a class.

Culture shock: An experience a person may have when moving to a new cultural environment that is different from their own; can include feelings of anxiety, loneliness, and confusion.

Curriculum Vitae: A more extensive "resume" that includes all of a person's education, qualifications, and previous experiences; this can include classes taught, conferences and trainings attended, certificates and other awards earned, etc.

Doctoral Degree: Highest level of an academic degree; students can earn a doctorate degree in almost any subject area as a terminal degree for their field; doctoral degrees can often last anywhere from 3-7 years or more.

D.Q. (Disqualification): A suspension from the university based on a student's inability to improve their cumulative GPA to a 2.0 or better. Students are put on academic probation first before being disqualified. Students should meet with their academic dean or department to be reinstated.

Educational Opportunity Program (EOP): A program for low-income and educationally disadvantaged students that provides admissions counseling, academic advising, peer mentoring, student success workshops, tutoring, and some supplemental financial assistance. Students must apply when they first apply to SDSU.

Elective: A class you can take that is not specifically required by your major or minor.

Faculty: Any professional who teaches a class for credit and is responsible for assigning students a grade for the class; the word "faculty" is used instead of "teachers."

Financial Aid Package: A "package" is any combination of scholarships, grants, loans, and work funds used by the postsecondary institution to assist the student in meeting the cost of education.

Fellowship: Fellowships are funding opportunities administered by outside institutions, organizations, or foundations; fellowships can fund domestic or international graduate study, undergraduate research, service, civic engagement, leadership development, internship opportunities, and more.

FERPA: Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, the federal law that requires universities to protect student records and privacy.

Full Time Student: A student who enrolls in at least a minimum number of credit hours of courses. Some financial aid is contingent on full-time enrollment. SDSU defines a full-time semester as 15 units.

General education classes: Classes that give students basic knowledge of a variety of topics. Students must take general education classes in order to graduate. This set of classes includes different lower division and upper division courses offered out of diverse departments.

See page 95 of the 20-21 SDSU General Catalog

QUICK GLANCE TERMS

Grade point average: The average of all of the course grades you have received, on a four-point scale.

Grade Point Average (Cumulative): An average based on all courses attempted at SDSU and transferable courses at other universities, liberal arts colleges, and community colleges.

Grade Point Average (Major): An average based on all upper division courses attempted in the major department.

Graduate Degrees: These degrees are earned beyond the bachelor's degree when the student completes graduate school curriculum requirements. Common examples include the MA (master's degree), PhD (doctoral degree) MBA (master's degree in business administration), MD (medical doctor).

Graduate Student Assistantship: Graduate students are eligible for graduate student assistantships with teaching, research, or other support roles in a university; this allows for graduate students to gain experience and receive some sort of financial stipend or pay.

Grant: Money given to the student with or without SDSU work expectations. However, there may be additional guidelines to follow set forth by the granting agency.

High Impact Practice: Active learning practices that promote deep learning by promoting student engagement; there are 10 identified HIPs: first-year seminars and experiences, common intellectual experiences, learning communities, writing-intensive courses, collaborative assignments and projects, undergraduate research, diversity/global learning, service learning or community-based learning, internships, and capstone courses and projects

Honors Council: HC comprises student and faculty representatives of the Weber Honors College and of the seven campus-wide multidisciplinary honors societies: Phi Eta Sigma, Golden Key, Phi Kappa Phi, Mortar Board, Phi Beta Kappa, and Scholars without Borders. HC acts as an advisory and coordinating center for all the honors societies and represents them on the Associated Students council

Honors Society: An organization that recognizes excellence among peers often based on scholastic and academic merit or contributions in extracurricular activities.

Hybrid Course: Courses in which some traditional face-to-face "seat time" has been replaced by online learning activities; the purpose is to take advantage of the best features of both face-to-face and online learning.

Leave of Absence: Students can apply for a leave of absence if they have completed at least one semester. This form can be completed to take a temporary leave of absence and plan to return later in the future. Meet with your college dean for approval.

Loan: Money loaned to a student or parent meant to be used for college expenses and which must be repaid (with interest) when the student graduates or stops going to school for six straight months (grace period). Subsidized loans are loans that do not accrue interest until after the grace period.

Major Adviser: See academic adviser. This adviser supports students with major-specific questions regarding coursework, internship opportunities, career paths, and more.

QUICK GLANCE TERMS

Master's Degree: A master's degree is usually a second-cycle academic degree awarded upon completion of course of study demonstrating mastery of a specific field of study or area of professional practice. Master's programs are usually two years long.

Major: A student's concentrated field of study.

Mentor: A trusted and experienced adviser; at SDSU, there are peer, staff, and faculty mentorship programs.

Minor: A student's secondary field of study.

Office Hours: Scheduled time during the week when faculty members are available to provide students additional help outside of the classroom. Office hours can be walk-in hours or require appointment. This is a good time to discuss class material further, absences, personal questions regarding academic performance, and other academic or professional questions.

Ombudsman: A person recognized or designated to help individuals understand rules, policies, procedures, rights and responsibilities, as well as offer suggestions when addressing conflicts at a campus.

Peer Adviser: An upper class student, often in the same major or field, who assists other students with personal, academic, and professional questions; these peer advisers often can't answer specific academic planning questions like an academic adviser can.

Peer Mentor: See mentor. Peer mentors provide support to students and help connect with them on their academic experience.

Pell Grant: Federal financial aid to support students' college fees; limited to students with financial need, who have not earned their first bachelor's degree, or who are enrolled in certain post-baccalaureate programs.

Ph.D.: See Doctoral Degree. Doctor of Philosophy.

Prerequisite: A course that must be taken prior to enrollment in another course.

RAAR Form: Request for Adjustment of Academic Requirement (RAAR); this form is used by students requesting an exception to an academic policy or regulation after meeting with their academic adviser and receiving an official evaluation.

Registrar: This office is primarily responsible for maintaining accurate student records, including contact information, enrollment history, grades, and transcripts. This office also creates the schedule of classes and is responsible for the registration system.

Research Assistantship: See graduate student assistantship. Research assistantships are open to undergraduate and graduate students, and provides opportunities for students to support a research project under a faculty mentor, often for pay or class credit.

Research (see Undergraduate Research): Opportunities to work on a project with a faculty mentor or on an individual research project to ask and answer empirical questions, conduct qualitative and quantitative observation methods, and learn more about a chosen field of study.

QUICK GLANCE TERMS

Residence Hall/Dorm: Previously referred to as dormitories/dorms, residence halls are the traditional housing option for new students. These buildings include “traditional” or “community” halls (2-3 students in one room with community bathrooms shared by several rooms), suite halls (2-3 students in one room with 2-4 rooms connected by a shared bathroom), and super-suite halls (1-2 students in one room with 2-4 rooms sharing a common living area and bathrooms).

Resident Assistant (RA): A student hired to live in a residence hall to help students adjust to living on campus and to serve as a peer advisor.

Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP): Students fill out this form if they did not complete 75% of the units attempted in summer, fall, and spring of an academic year; and if their GPA is below the minimum SAP standard.

Scholarship: A grant or payment made to support a student’s education, award on the basis of academic or other achievement, or by need; this money does not have to be repaid but may be taxed.

Service Learning (get from DAESA service learning website): Field-based experiential learning to provide students with direct experiences with issues studying in the curriculum in order to analyze and solve problems in the community.

STEM: Acronym for Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics.

Stipend: A fixed regular sum paid as a salary or allowance; usually given during a brief internship program to pay students for their work.

Student Persistence: This is the act of working, progressing, and earning credits toward graduation in an academic environment.

Study Abroad: One of the high-impact practices for students to participate in; students will complete a brief term studying abroad in a different country for academic credit; SDSU students may study abroad for spring break, winter break, summer, one semester, or a full year

Summer Fellowship: See fellowship. Summer fellowships are held in the summer, often hosted by another outside institution or organization. Fellowships can include research, internship, etc. Depending on your fellowship, they may cover lodging, travel, meals, and provide a stipend.

Supplemental Instruction (SI) - Supplemental Instruction (SI) provides students in historically challenging courses with free, voluntary, non-remedial, peer-facilitated study. Since its implementation at SDSU in 2015, students who participate in SI Sessions have experienced increased exam performance of half to a full letter grade. SI Sessions are facilitated by students (SI Leaders) who receive training to use concepts from the classes to offer 90-minute SI Sessions that use active learning strategies and study skills for students to use throughout the semester and college careers. SI Sessions are offered throughout the week (as many as 20 per course) to accommodate students’ busy schedules. More information about Supplemental Instruction, including the courses where SI is offered and SI Session times, may be found at <https://its.sdsu.edu/supplemental-instruction/> or by contacting SI Coordinator, Emily Bates, (619) 594-2205.

Syllabus: The course agenda used by a faculty member for the system; generally includes office hours, required and optional books, grading formula, reading and homework assignments and deadlines, class expectations, assignment instructions, and attendance policy.

QUICK GLANCE TERMS

Teaching Assistantship: A graduate student who assists a professor with teaching an undergraduate course, usually within his or her field, as part of an assistantship. Some SDSU departments hire undergraduate students teaching assistants.

Thesis: A formal piece of writing on a specific subject, which may be required to earn a bachelor's or graduate degree.

Undergraduate Research: Opportunities for students to work with a faculty mentor or conduct their own individual research projects to enrich their academic curriculum through enhanced critical thinking skills and greater understanding of their chosen field; undergraduate research often includes mentorship, originality, acceptability, and dissemination

Upper Division: Upper division courses are offered at the junior level or higher (courses numbered 300-499 are upper division)

Waitlist: Once a course fills out, a waitlist is compiled of students who are interested in joining the class and waiting for open seats.

Weber Honors College (WHC): Academic program that consists of an honors minor in Interdisciplinary Studies (no single subject courses), study abroad, and high impact practice. WHC offers small class sizes, personalized attention, and fosters an intentional community of diverse, engaged students, and a unique atmosphere of creativity. Open to all majors.

Withdraw: To reduce the number of hours enrolled in to zero by deleting all course from one's class semester; depending on when you withdraw, you may receive some to no refund.

Work Study: Funding offered to students through campus employment; many departments prefer to hire students on work study since the funding comes from federal financial aid and not through the department itself.

Writing Center: A free service on campus to provide students with tutors and coaches to learn more about academic writing, research writing, or scholarship writing. This service also supports faculty efforts in writing instruction and teaching.
